USA Point bases PR

Donald Trump, the US President, on 28 February hailing the merit-based immigration system, which is being followed by Australia Canada and many other countries, asked America to adopt it, stating that it would help the country save a lot of money, hike workers' salaries and aid underprivileged families.

This system would allow immigrants to be chosen on the basis of their merit and skills.

Trump was said to have expressed interest in the merit-based immigration system of Canada when he met Justin Trudeau, Canadian Prime Minister, in mid-February.

He said that they should switch over from the current system of allowing migrants with low skills to follow a merit-based system, benefits of which are manifold.
